BURIAL OF EDWARD VII

London, England May 20.—The body of King Edward VII was carried through the streets of London today in the presence of many hundreds of thousands of his subjects and with the kings of nine European nations, several future rulers, members of all the royal families of the world, and a former president of the United States following the casket.

From Westminster Hall to Paddington station the cortege moved through solid double lines of red-coated soldiers, standing with rifles reversed and regimental colors dipped to the ground. At the railway station the casket was placed in a funeral car and taken to Windsor where, after the Church of England service had been conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury in St. George's chapel, it was entombed in the Albert Memorial chapel adjoining.

No such spectacle has been witnessed in London since Queen Victoria's jubilee. The parade included many of the greatest men of the kingdom, with representatives of all arms of the service and delegations from most of the famous regiments of the empire and representative groups of foreign armies and navies.

Behind the casket on which rested the imperial symbols, followed the late king's charger, while his favorite terrier was led by a Highland soldier.

Just before the imperial entombment were King George Emperor William and several other members of royalty, who wore the uniforms of British generals.

No personage in the parade attracted more attention than did Theodore Roosevelt, whose civilian clothes contrasted curiously with the gilded state coach, with its wined and silk-stockinged flunkies, within which he rode. The representatives of the two great republics, the United States and France, were given position at the rear of all royalties and the prince of the pettiest of European states. Their carriages were the last in the line of representatives of foreign governments.

It is doubtful if so many people were ever before in London. All the Mall, in St. James street and Hyde Park the throng almost overwhelmed the procession. The police and soldiers had to fight to prevent their lines from being swept. In the crush there were many broken limbs and other injuries. Hundreds of persons fainted, especially women, who had been standing for hours before the procession passed.

The services at St. George's church were deeply impressive. As the minute guns boomed and the bells tolled the casket was borne on the shoulders of grenadiers of the guards and placed on a purple catafalque before the altar which was fairly buried in flowers. The Lord Chamberlain and Lord Steward took positions at the right of the catafalque, while King George, as the chief mourner, stood at the head of the casket.

There was a moment of profound silence, then the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Winchester advanced to the casket. The choir chanted, "Man that is born of woman," and the congregation recited the Lord's prayer, the rumble of many voices being accompanied by Gounod's music. The service of the Church of England was followed throughout. The Archbishop of Canterbury pronounced the solemn benediction, after which with the Bishop of Winchester, he knelt before the altar a moment in silent prayer.

As the clergy arose, the hush was broken by the procession which withdrew from the chapel, and the body of King Edward VII remained before the altar, later to find a permanent resting place in the royal tomb house in the Albert memorial chapel.

SOCIALIST PARTY MAKES CHANGE IN ITS PLEDGE.
Chicago May 20.—An important change was made in the constitution of the Socialist party in its congress today when the phrase in the pledge of the party was changed from "A political party distinct from and opposed to all parties formed by the propertied classes," to read "by the capitalized classes."

A heated debate preceded the change. According to delegates who favored the change it was felt that the words "propertied classes" would be considered to include the farmers. The sentiment of the party at present is said to favor the admission of the farmers. A committee was appointed to consider the "farmer question" and to report to the convention in 1912.

MRS. CLAY DISMISSED BY JUSTICE A. J. WELTER.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Mary C. Clay on the charge of giving bogus papers to Mrs. Cora L. Pomeroy, wife of Fred Pomeroy, was held in the justice court of A. J. Welter this morning and part of this afternoon and resulted in the dismissal of Mrs. Clay. The case opened at ten o'clock and all the morning session was taken up in hearing the evidence of the complainant and in reading the documents she offered in evidence. Her testimony, both verbal or documentary, was in substance the same as given in yesterday's Record. Several other witnesses were put on the stand including Mrs. Clay and the defense was that it was not shown that the note and mortgage given by Mrs. Clay to Mrs. Pomeroy in settlement of her claim were bogus. It will be remembered that the note and mortgage were for the sum of $1,500, given as a settlement of Mrs. Pomeroy's claim that Mrs. Clay had alienated the affections of Mrs. Pomeroy's husband. Both the women were on the stand. Mr. Pomeroy was not present. He is said to be in Colorado.

The case will not be dropped here, however, as Mrs. Clay, through her attorneys, Gatewood & Graves and O. O. Askren, have filed an injunction suit in district court to prevent the collection of the note and mortgage, which, they claim, were given thru intimidation. Judge Sutton is now representing Mrs. Pomeroy and was in charge of the prosecution today. O. O. Askren represented Mrs. Clay in court today.

LAW AGAINST DISCRIMINATION VALID IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., May 20.—The state supreme court today declared valid the state law forbidding discrimination in the charges of commodities sold throughout the state. The decision came on appeal from the Ramsey county court in sustaining the demurrers of the Standard Oil Company to the complaint of the State of Minnesota, in which it was charged that the company charged discriminating prices where it had no competition. The case will now be tried on its facts and an injunction asked for.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY DISCUSSES DIVORCES.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 20.—Elder Charles H. Thompson, of Minneapolis, treasurer of the National Presbyterian Brotherhood, was today named vice-moderator of the general assembly. The question of the attitude of the Presbyterian church on marriage and divorce, was formally turned over to the federal council of churches. The discussion was halted by officials, who stated their belief that the matter of divorce should be taken out of the assembly's discussions.

PITTSBURG'S COUNCIL'S PRESIDENT IDENTIFIED GUILTY OF GRAFTING.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 20.—Dr. F. C. Blessing, president of the common council, was today found guilty of a conspiracy and bribery in connection with the recent graft exposures. The jury recommended "extreme leniency."

THE BAPTIST REVIVAL CONTINUES WITH MUCH INTEREST

The large auditorium of the First Baptist church was well filled again on last evening. Mr. Sellers, the singer, began drilling the large chorus choir at 7:45 and a great many people were in their places at this time to take advantage of the opportunity afforded to hear this great musician which is indeed a rare opportunity for the people of Roswell.

Pastor McDowell preached one of the very best sermons that he has yet presented to the congregation and certainly no one could help feeling that it was good for him to have been there. He took for his text John 3:16 and in a very clear and effective manner explained the meaning of this great man and ruler and member of the Jewish sanhedrin, Nicodemus with the Lord Jesus Christ when he crept up the stairs to call upon the latter by night and well may we wonder if this story of Nicodemus does not very closely fit the case of some of our representative business men in Roswell.

One of the prettiest and most effective meetings yet held was the short service at the Roswell Hardware Co. yesterday afternoon at 1:15 there being more than one hundred men present. Mr. Sellers sang and all went away pleased, so much so that we feel the success of these meetings is assured, and there will be services again today at this place at 1:15 also Saturday at the same hour and all men are urged to attend.

Before the close of the service last evening several manifested an interest in the meetings by asking the prayers of God's people for their salvation and we hope to see many more tonight.

Promptly at 7:45 this evening Mr. Sellers will begin drilling the choir on some new songs it is wonderful to see how this large chorus choir takes hold of the new songs under the leadership of this great singer of national and international reputation, and all who can will do well to come a little early and take advantage of this drill.

WOULD ELIMINATE POLITICS IN CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

St. Louis, Mo., May 20.—The elimination of politics in the appointment of state governing boards of charitable institutions was strongly advocated during the discussion of the administration of homes for the poor and unfortunate before the general session of the National Conference of Charities and Correction.

St. Louis, May 19.—Jane Addams, head of the Hull House Settlement, at Chicago, and president of the conference, in her address expressed the opinion that philanthropists are approaching greater uniformity in their aims, their studies and their methods of dispensing charity.

Dividing the great body of philanthropists into two groups, the charitable, actuated by "pity for the poor" and the Radicals, "fired by hatred of justice," Miss Addams declared that both are coming to realize that the world needs a certain power of compassion in our social atmosphere.

"Sheer experience in the complexity of life has at last united both groups in sentiment as well as in conviction," said Miss Addams. "The negative policy of relieving destitution, or even, the more generous one of preventing it, is giving way to the positive idea of raising life to its highest value."

"If at times, the moral fire seems to be dying out of the good old words relief and charity, it has undoubtedly flickered with a new warmth certain words which belong distinctively to our own times, such words as prevention, amelioration and social justice."

Miss Addams declared that the charitable inclined person seeking legislation, must, to be effective be armed with more than sentimental zeal; they must appear as men of science, armed with statistics to support their pleas.

Speaking of women who must support themselves and children, Miss Addams said that when the woman was unable to do so, the state furnished home for the young ones. If the children are to be boarded, the speaker asked, why not with their mothers?

"Many illustrations," said Miss Addams, "are possible of social advances due to sanitary science pushed by the charitable, but for our purpose, nothing illustrates this more rapidly and graphically than the changes arising from the movement to control and eradicate tuberculosis. We can quite honestly instance the demand for a more generous feeding of the healthful members of the family which is arising from the proper feeding of the tuberculosis patient."

Miss Addams asserted that an obligation rests upon the charity and correction people to discover how many of their burdens come to them as the results of social neglect, remedial incapacity, and a lack of industrial safeguards. She instanced an American white lead factory, where, she said, every workman is discharged at the end of three months, not for faulty work but to prevent the men from developing lead poisoning.

"This is, of course, cheaper than to employ examining physicians or to install safeguards," commented the speaker. She told of a pottery factory where she said men are chiefly engaged who are already afflicted with tuberculosis and, cancer, because knowing they have but little time to live, they do not protest against the fate of lead poisoning.

"Three hundred years ago, John Bull looking out over England tells us that he saw 'the great treading down the little, the strong beating down the weak, and cruel men fearing not, and kind men daring not, and wise men caring not,' and then, with heart burning within him, he cries aloud, 'And the saints in heaven forbearing, and yet forbidding me not to forbear.'

If we compare our time with his, we will admit that although the great still trend down the little, and the strong beat down the weak, that the cruel are at last becoming afraid of public opinion, that kind men are more daring in their schemes of alleviation than they used to be, that wise men are at last learning to regard human sympathy as one source of wisdom, and in that sense, at least, are more solicitous. We do not venture to say whether or not the saints in heaven forbear, but we are very certain that no saint upon earth could forbear in the presence of contemporaneous social and industrial conditions, and whether saint or sinner, we all know that the conditions can only be made more righteous, and more human by the increasing devotion of countless generations of men.

"The English economists and philanthropists have started a crusade against the destitution; the most inbred of revolutionists are those who have been stung into revolt by the poverty and degradation of Russia's peasants; the social democrats of Germany are three and a half million men, vowed to the destruction of poverty." What part shall American take in this international crusade of the compassionate. In this standing army of humanity's self pity suddenly mobilized for a new conquest."
